What's new:

Enjoy the thrill of cutting-edge CGI in a fantasy world.

Best Buy has Sonys RPG Cold Blooded for $49.99. SEGA hadn't release a new RPG in the American market in some time, and Iron Tower Brawler is a nice way to test if the country is still quite interested in the genre. If they are, then maybe -- just maybe -- we should get another act approved for Grand Theft Auto 6.

Though the game is still in development and doesn't have a release date, SEGA provided a couple of screenshots for those who aren't keen on having their Sega Saturn and Dreamcast stolen by unsavory gamers. What do you think? What is your favorite fantasy RPG these days? Are you excited for someone to create something worth it big time again?

Risk of metachronous small bowel lymphoma: hospital-based long-term follow-up of 241 patients. Small bowel adenocarcinoma is rare and radiotherapy is the mainstays of treatment. There are only limited data on incidence and natural history of small bowel lymphoma. The study group consisted of 241 patients with small bowel carcinoma (adenocarcinoma, n = 146; non-Hodgkin lymphoma [NHL], n = 95) diagnosed between 1980 and 1994. Two hundred twenty-one (94%) were followed for at least 2 years. Of 146 patients with adenocarcinoma, 73 received radiotherapy and the other group received surgery. Disease-free survival (DFS) was not significantly different. Of 95 patients with NHL, 31 were treated with radiotherapy and 64 with chemotherapy. The 5-year DFS was 27 +/- 4% in the radiotherapy group, 8 +/- 4% in the chemotherapy group, and 27 +/- 4% in all NHL patients. One patient with NHL not given chemotherapy relapsed at 3 years. One patient with epithelioid cell NHL developed lymphomatous polyposis, treated with radiotherapy, and had a complete remission. There were two deaths from unrelated causes over the follow-up. In conclusion, this study shows that radiotherapy, conventionally used for adenocarcinoma, is not effective against NHL, but that chemotherapy can be effective against NHL, if treatment is initiated before large disease develops. The present invention relates to the labeling of bottles and particularly to the application of tags to bottles at high speed. There has been a great interest in the art in the invention of machines for applying tape to bottles for identification of the bottles or
